The Hall

Ayscoughfee Hall, in the centre of the historic market town of Spalding, was built around 1451 by a wealthy wool merchant, Richard Aldwyn.

This fascinating building mirrors the changing tastes and times of its successive owners with architectural details from the Medieval, Georgian and Victorian periods. Some of its earlier features are of national importance.

The Gardens

Amongst the attractions of these prize winning grounds are a late eighteenth century icehouse, fine yew hedges dating back to the 1720s, an ornamental lake and a war memorial designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens.
Ayscoughfee Hall is a beautiful Grade II* listed building set in five acres of unique public gardens ideal for your photographs.

This intimate venue, just minutes from Spalding town centre, is licensed for civil ceremonies for up to 40 people.

Included are the services of our dedicated Wedding Coordinators and exclusive use of the south facing Garden Room for light refreshments before and after the ceremony.

There is ample public parking nearby for your guests.

Sign the register in our lovely mahogany panelled Gentlemen’s Library.