

...making dreams
come true...

Have you ever wondered what it would feel like...

...to fly an airliner?...

...to pilot a jet fighter?

Unless you become a qualified pilot you will never know...

*It will be an unfulfilled
dream!*

But, thanks to modern flight simulation technology,
there is an experience awaiting you that will give you the sensation of flight.

In our flight simulators
you will experience
replicated sights, sounds and sensations associated with real flying.

Once you have settled
into your seat and taken control it will be a total
experience and, for you,
your dream will have come true...You will have flown!

...which one will
you choose?

Welcome on board...

A warm welcome awaits visitors to our Flight Centre.

From the moment you arrive your experienced instructor will be on hand to make you feel at home and to prepare you for your flight experience.

After light refreshments, perhaps a strong coffee to settle any pre-flight nerves, your briefing session will begin. This will familiarise you with the aircraft, its controls and detail the flight you will be making.

Then it's off to the flight simulator and chocks away!

Captain a 737...

Seating up to 130 passengers the 737-200 was powered by two Pratt & Whitney JT8D turbofans giving it a range of 2,200 miles with a cruise speed of 575mph.

Over one thousand Boeing 737-200s were built and sold to 128 airlines. The last version, the 737-200 Advance, was delivered to the Chinese operator Xiamen Airlines.

The 737 Series is still in production and in service with airlines around the world.

Are you ready to captain a modern airliner?

...Cleared for take-off...

Pilot an F4...

The Mach 2.00 Phantom was the most widely used US designed fighter with over 5,000 being built before it was phased out of production. Variants of this classic jet are still flying today.

The Royal Air Force version was powered by two Rolls-Royce Spey engines.

Armament included combinations of cannon with Sidewinder and Sparrow or Skyflash missiles.
